Let's Start!

Let's review!

Learning Outcome

Identify and describe plans for the organization of events.

Ask your partner:

- How do you make choices for the future?
- Who do you talk to?
- What things might you consider?

Can Do Statements

- I can say what I was doing when something else happened.
- I can compare two things.
- I can say what I'm doing in the future.

Let's Explore!

Did Peter's father get a lot of pictures at commencement?

* "Commencement" is another word for graduation.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Peter: This was an incredibly good day!
Camilla: Everyone was screaming when we tossed our mortar boards!
Peter: The chancellor was yawning when he gave me my diploma!
Camilla: Your father might want a better photo!
Peter: I'll grab the chancellor before he takes off his cap and gown.
Camilla: I'll call you in a week. We can catch up.
Peter: I might have a new more interesting job by then!
Camilla: Could we meet somewhere for coffee?
Peter: Sure. Oh. My mom is over there waving.
Camilla: Where?
Peter: She's got long, reddish brown hair.
Camilla: I see her. She's younger than I imagined!
Peter: Really? Dad texted me while we were waiting to get our diplomas.
Camilla: Oh?
Peter: We're going out to dinner with family. The day is going to get much longer!
Camilla: I may be doing the same thing with my parents.
Peter: Well, thanks for making graduation day more fun!
Camilla: Anytime. I'll call! Bye.

Let's Practice!

Target Words

- graduation (noun): an event after you complete a course of study
e.g. My graduation from college is next week.
- mortar board (noun): a traditional hat worn to a graduation ceremony
e.g. We threw our mortar boards in the air after the ceremony.
- chancellor (noun): a legal official e.g. The university chancellor spoke at the graduation.
- incredibly (adverb): very; hard to believe e.g. It was incredibly difficult to do.
- cap and gown (expression): a mortar board hat and academic style coat worn at graduation ceremonies
e.g. Everyone put on their caps and gowns before the ceremony.

Learning Points

The Past Tense and Past Continuous Tense

You use the Simple Past tense to talk about events that are finished.

You use the Past Continuous to talk about events or an action that was happening at a time in the past.

Present	Past	Past Continuous
yawn	yawned	was/were yawning
scream	screamed	was/were screaming
catch up	caught up	was/were catching up
do	did	was/were doing

Examples:

- Peter was taking a nap while he was waiting to get his diploma!
- Peter's father took a picture of him while he was standing with the chancellor.

The Future

You use the modals may and might to show possibility. They have the same meaning. Possibility means that something may or may not happen.

You use the modal will to predict the future in a more certain way.

Examples:

- Your father might want a better photo!
- I may be doing the same thing with my parents.
